☞Those who read the article in the Democrat on arbitrary arrests need no reply to the quibblings of the Journal. Neither the President nor any one else has the shadow of right to arrest or hold in duress any man, except according to law, in States or localities where war does not exist. This was explained in the Democrat, so that nobody misunderstood it, except the editor of the Journal. The case is very different within the lines of an army in the presence of the enemy in force. The conduct of Wilkison at Orleans, and of Jackson at the same place, were approved by the country. We shall not blame Abraham Lincoln nor any of his Generals who follow these examples in similar conditions. We would not cripple the efforts of any General in the field to see to the safety of his army in the presence of danger. We believe this is a belligerent right that is not in dispute. It lasts while the danger lasts, and is measured by the extent of the danger. There may be cases that are questionable as to whether they could be justified by any concession of this belligerent right. It is a dangerous power to be admitted at all, and there are cases to which the principle has no application at all. The principle may be grossly abused, even within the lines of an army in the presence of an enemy. But the Legislature, avoiding any disputed ground, resolved what is beyond dispute—that the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus, and the declaration of martial law in States where war does not exist, is unwarranted; it subordinates the civil to the military rule, and tends to subvert free government. This strikes at a startling usurpation of power which has been practiced repeatedly, and which is now claimed as legitimate.

But when arrests were made in States where war did not exist we said nothing about them. There are things done now that we don't think it worth while to say anything about.

But we have said, perhaps, more than is needed. The Journal will quibble on, no doubt. If it has any position on these subjects the public does not know it, and we don't think the editor knows it himself.

☞Our foreign relations are now more ominous, as we have suggested, than at any other time since the opening of the rebellion. The Emperor Napoleon, who is as much master of Europe, or more, by diplomacy, than his uncle ever was by the sword, has gathered about him, by treaty or otherwise, the whole power of Europe, with the exception of Prussia and Russia, the Sclavonic powers of the north. He holds England by her fears, and makes her the supple instrument in his wily hands. He commands Austria by an offer of an empire to that family of the Hapsburgs that has never won empire but by marriage or permission. He wins Spain by an appeal to her bitter prejudice against those who took that empire from her which Cortez won. Italy is dumb. The Imperial finger of Napoleon has been placed upon her lips, and she dares not speak. The Latin and Aztec race in Mexico, after a noble struggle, are at the feet of that grand imperial and silent power that may not strike before it speaks, but never fails to strike. It is more than probable that this great Machiavel, this man whose manifest destiny is perfect diplomacy, has, under the skillful and adroit teaching of Slidell and Mason, already prepared an alliance offensive and defensive with the rebel Confederacy. His Mexican success is a parallel with his Italian campaign. When he turned his back upon the Austrian Minister at his palace, it was not more significant than his intervention for peace between our armies a year ago. He gave a part of Italy to the Italians, and gave Savoy to France—Savoy that for two centuries France has claimed. He breaks with America in a cooler and politer way than with Austria, but equally significant. He fights in Mexico as he fought in Italy, and Savoy was given to him as the Southern Confederacy gives him Texas. He is the "nephew of his uncle" in a higher sense than Victor Hugo's sneer and satire ever meant. He knows how to divide and destroy; to gain a foothold in the Gulf; to have an "India in the West filled with barbaric gold and gems," was his aim, and that, with his genius and his soldiership, and more than all, his French legions, is what we will have to contend against to preserve the Union. We do not pretend to criticise the Administration. There may have been more facts before them at Washington, and it is a crime to criticise the Administration. Every American, however, will ask if this could not have been prevented. A few months ago, probably, when this French treaty was under discussion, the Vice President of the Southern Confederation asked permission to come to Washington on a Federal gunboat. He was known to have preferred a Union of the American States; to have resisted secession up to the last. Major General Halleck, Admiral Welles, or Major General Lincoln refused even the poor privilege of his seeing their high mightinesses. They would not even discuss with him any subject, much less the question of a restoration of the Union; for that at least one rebel paper, the Mobile Register, declared was his object, and rejoiced as glowingly as any Republican paper in the North that he was insultingly denied. Now the same influential gentleman is reported at Nassau, en route for Europe. What for? Under these last defeats can we doubt that there is any object but one, and that is in the most authoritative manner to complete the French alliance? We may err in our conclusions, but the facts are plain and the inference just. We would be willing for time to try our conclusions, if we thought time could aid any wisdom at Washington.

☞The Frankfort Commonwealth is very indignant that the impressment of property to build the military road should be made general upon loyal and disloyal. The editor wants to make the sinners pay, whilst the saints enjoy the benefit. He wants, in short, his party to be exempt, whilst his political opponents bear the burden. One would think that the saints would feel a pleasure in aiding this military enterprise; that they would be the last to complain; that they would not only send the darkies, but go themselves to a vigorous prosecution of the work. Instead of that, they are grumbling that they are asked for help at all.

The Commonwealth says the faithful were promised exemption if they voted right, whilst those who would not vote right were to be levied on. We say voted right, for that was the understanding; and now the writer requires the fulfillment of the promise.

Lest it be said that we approved this impressment, because we said nothing about it, we give our private opinion now that the whole impressment is wrong.

☞Mr. Lincoln, in his Springfield letter, says:

I think that the Constitution invests its Commander-in-Chief with the law of war in time of war. The most that can be said, if so much, is, that slaves are property.

Is there—has there ever been, any question that by the law of war the property, both of enemies and friends, may be taken when needed—and is it not needed whenever, taken, it helps us or hurts the enemy? Armies, the world over, destroy enemies' property when they cannot use it, and even destroy their own to keep it from the enemy. Civilized belligerents do all in their power to help themselves or hurt the enemy, except a few things regarded as barbarous or cruel. Among the exceptions are the massacre of vanquished foes and non-combatants, male and female.

Of this the Philadelphia Age says: "It would appear, therefore, that Mr. Lincoln labors under the notion that he has the same sort of right to pledge 'the Executive Government of the United States to recognize and maintain the freedom' of the slaves in all the States not under the control of the Government as a prize court would by an alien enemy. If it were not for the consequences of it, it would be simply ridiculous." In the first place, we deny that any property can be confiscated before captured, and, secondly, that civilized belligerents can confiscate slaves.

Thus Wheaton (p. 596, 3d edition) says:

From the moment one State is at war with another, it has, on general principles, a right to seize on all the enemy's property of whatsoever kind and wheresoever found, and to appropriate the property thus taken to its own use or to that of the captors; but by the modern usage of nations, which has now acquired the usage of law, private property on land is exempt from confiscation, with the exception of such as may become booty in special cases, when taken from enemies in the field or in besieged towns, and of military contributions levied upon the inhabitants of the hostile territory. This exemption extends even to the case of an absolute and unqualified conquest of the enemy's country.

So, too, Judge Sprague, of Boston, while maintaining, in his opinion in the case of the Amy Warwick (Law Reporter, June, 1862, p. 498), the right to confiscate the property of the inhabitants of the seceded States taken at sea, without regard to the question of the personal loyalty of the owners, not only denied that his decision countenanced the confiscation of property found on land, but he also contended that Congress never could confiscate such property by any legislation it could enact:

Belligerent confiscations take effect only upon property of which possession is taken during the war. As against property which continues under the control of the enemy, they are wholly inoperative.

CRUEL.—The New York World has the following cruel article on the violated laws of war, which, it will be seen, the editor has not conscience enough even to suppress his authority:

VIOLATED LAWS OF WAR.—Are there such things as laws of war, and if so, where are they to be found? The Tribune asserts that the rebels are perpetually putting forth claims of their own, and endeavoring to bully us into an admission of them, and that those claims are perfectly unjustifiable.

We really thought that mankind, after being at war forever, had in these latter days settled upon some regulations which were as consistent with humanity and vigor as possible, and that an humanitarian would know them.

Halleck, whom we at least must admit as authority, states that the modern usage is not to touch private property on land, without making compensation, except in certain specified cases:

First. Confiscations by way of penalty for military offenses.

Second. Forced contributions for the support of armies, or as an indemnity for expenses.

Third. Property taken on the field of battle.

None of these justifies freeing slaves, and as the United States made Great Britain pay for slaves her navy took away, our mouths are shut and our hands are tied. We have laid down the law of nations; had it argued and decided in our favor, that slaves are private property, to be paid for if carried off by a belligerent.

Now as to the treatment of these slaves, whom a belligerent arms and enlists as its soldiers, from the territory of an enemy. Fugitives and deserters, says Halleck, quoting Vattel, and adopting his rule, found by a victor among his enemies are guilty of a crime against him, and he has an undoubted right to punish them, and even put them to death. They are not properly considered as military enemies in the general meaning of that term, nor are they entitled to the rights of ordinary prisoners of war, either under the law of nations, or by the general terms of a special compact or agreement.

That uniform kindness which restrains the World in its surgical operations has withheld it from noticing the fact that this demand for remuneration was made by John Quincy Adams, an anti slavery man, who had the humanity to pronounce such warfare barbarous.

☞Governor Bramlette said, very truly, "the revolted States did not change their status by rebellion," but he is mistaken in asserting that "all that is necessary for them to do is to return to their fealty and take their position as States." That is all that ought to be necessary, but, unfortunately, some other requirements are made. The loyal people of Louisiana had the same impression, and acting upon it, wished to take position under their former Constitution as a State. Lincoln, however, did not agree with Governor Bramlette, and politely told the people in effect that they could enjoy no civil rights until they abolished slavery. Our Governor's inaugural leaves a wrong impression. The theory is as it is there stated, but as long as Mr. Lincoln controls the practice he will not be apt to trouble himself about the speculations of those who, in any event, have resolved to aid him.

☞The Cincinnati Commercial thinks if the President were to revoke his proclamation the rebels would consider it a sign of weakness, and fight with increased desperation. So much for the philosophy of the Commercial. Its veracity is illustrated by a flat denial that elections are controlled by the bayonet.

☞Gibraltar was ceded to Spain by the Moors, in 1462, and taken by the English under Sir G. Rooke, in 1704. Under Lord Heathfield it withstood successfully a memorable siege by the French and Spaniards, in 1782. The English have now held the place one hundred and fifty-nine years.

A RARE DISH.—In the bill of fare at one of the Hartford hotels last week, "Fort Sumter Defunct" was printed among the choicest dishes. Those who tried it, says the Press, said it was cooked with Greek fire, served with Parrots and garnished with grape sance.

☞The London Times, which abused Louis Napoleon daily for a year, now turns about and lands "the inscrutable mind" which "wields colossal power." And all because Austria and France have sworn friendship with each other.

☞It is related that Duverger, the actress, wears in one of her characters at a Paris theater a costume valued at $180,000. One diamond in her head-dress is valued at $20,000. That beats shoddy.

☞A radical says General Lee went into Pennsylvania because he was invited. It must have been his enemies, not his friends, that invited him, for he never made a more foolish move.

☞Mr. Peabody, the American banker, passed through Inverness, Scotland, recently, on his way to his shooting at Glengarry.

☞The new sword which was recently given to General Meade by the Pennsylvania troops cost $2,200.

☞Jim Lane is a Marat, with all his beastliness and ferocity, without his talent.

Burning at Waverly.

We learn from a gentleman—a resident of this city—who arrived last night from Lafayette county, that the town of Waverly, in that county, was visited by a force of some one hundred and fifty to two hundred men, commanded by Major Kelly, who has charge of the post at Marshal, Saline county. The troops reached there in the evening, and about dark set fire to a warehouse, filled with hemp and other produce. This building belonged to Mr. William S. Thomas. Fire was at the same time set to a warehouse owned by Mr. Hoffman, formerly Cashier of the Lexington Bank. Shortly after some houses and other buildings, near these, were lighted up. One of these was a store, occupied by John Walton, and the other a house owned by Charles Cowan. All the buildings fired were burnt to the ground. The total loss is estimated at some fifty thousand dollars, and to embrace about half the town.

Next morning they set fire to and consumed a house in the outskirts of Waverly, belonging to Bush Corder, and also to a barn belonging to a Mr. Webb. About the same time fires took off-et in five or six dwellings in the same vicinity, but, as was stated by our informant, by parties, so far as he could ascertain, unknown.

We could not, upon inquiry from him, learn what induced this visit and incited to this destruction of property at this place. So far as we can understand, Waverly is not within the district to which Major Kelly properly belongs. We lament such destruction of property on all grounds. Every act of the kind tends to the impoverishment of our people in the interior of the State, and heaven knows there has been damage enough already in the western districts south of the Missouri, without adding further acts of wanton destruction, provided this be, as it appears to be upon our present information, entirely unjustifiable. We hope General Brown will make prompt inquiry into the facts of this case.

CRIME IN ENGLAND.—The latest official statistics of crime in England more than confirm the terrible record given in Mr. Kay's book on the social condition of the English poor. Of the persons who passed through the English prisons in the twelvemonth ending at Michaelmas last, the returns show that no less than four thousand and fifty three had been in prison above ten times before; four years ago the number was only three thousand and six. Last year there were in London alone two thousand six hundred and thirty-seven known thieves at large. The highway robberies and personal attacks, including garrotters, numbered last year more than double the previous year. There were thirteen thousand two hundred and ninety-eight crimes committed in the city during the year. There were last year twenty thousand five hundred and ninety-one coroners' inquests held in England and Wales. The cost was £65,102 16s. 8d., being on an average £2 2s. 3d. each.

It was recently stated in Parliament, by Mr. Cox, that one thousand eight hundred and eighty seven cases of infanticide occurred in England and Wales from January, 1861, to July, 1862. Mr. Cox remarked:

This was certainly no credit to our boasted civilization. He did not think that the most obvious motive, namely, a desire on the part of the mothers of illegitimate children to get rid of the evidence of their shame, operated so widely as might be thought, because a majority of the children murdered were upwards of a year old. He believed, however, that the bastardy laws were in fault, for the allowance of two shillings six pence was not sufficient to support an infant, and boards of guardians were unable to assist women to recover even that. Another fertile source of child-murder was, that coroners' juries would not bring in verdicts of child-murder if they could by any possibility avoid it. The question he had to put to the right honorable gentleman at the head of the Home Office was, whether, during the recess, he would take the subject into consideration and suggest any means whereby a remedy might be applied to the evil now existing.

Yet English journals boast that England is the "guardian of civilization!"

SEEING AN AVALANCHE PASS.—Mr. Francis Galton, a well known English traveler and member of the "Alpine Club," has this summer made a singular experience. He discovered a spot on the Jungfrau range, where he might stand in safety and watch the avalanches sweeping past him, within thirty feet of his person. In one half day he saw three descents. The avalanches slid two thousand feet, then leaped two great bounds of a thousand feet more, to the channel, close to which he was standing; and then burst out at the foot of the channel "like a storm of shrapnell." Mr. Galton describes the general appearance of the avalanche, when seen at so short a distance, as that of "an orderly mob filling the street and hastening, not hurrying, to the same object." Something of the same impression is made upon one who looks attentively at the great sheet of water which rolls slowly down on the Canadian side of the falls at Niagara. The motion is majestically deliberate, and though swift, not hurried. The noise of the avalanche in motion Mr. Galton likens to "the sound of a rapid tide rushing up many channels." The avalanche is described as consisting of a mass of ice balls, usually from a foot to a yard in diameter, which produce "the fearful rattle of the ice-cascade."

☞L'Opinione Nationale, of Paris, the organ of Prince Napoleon, thinks the establishment of a non slaveholding Government in Mexico would prove more offensive to the South, in case the latter should become independent, than even the North would be. If, on the contrary, the South should be defeated, both South and North would combine in attempting to break down the new monarchy. Maximilian, notwithstanding his reported acceptance of the Mexican crown, is said to be still hesitating. He is not satisfied with the action of the junta, but wishes it confirmed by a popular vote. It is stated that the French are preparing to occupy Matamoras, which brings them immediately on the Texan border. The ostensible object of the occupation is the facility which it would give to the prosecution of the cotton trade.

THE VANDERBILT.—It is highly probable that the United States steamer Vanderbilt has been sunk by the Confederate pirate Georgia. It has been so reported from Richmond, and the Tallahatchie Floridian says that it is informed that the Vanderbilt chased the Georgia for some hours, but, on receiving a broadside from the Georgia, sunk, and her whole crew, except thirty, were drowned. Her complement of men was five hundred. The Vanderbilt was the fastest steamer in the navy. She formerly was a passenger steamer in the California line. She was the steamer that for weeks was stationed at Hampton Roads for the purpose of running down the rebel Alabama, if the latter should come out of Norfolk.

☞The peach crop of Michigan this year is estimated at over 300,000 baskets, produced principally upon the eastern shore of Lake Michigan, in the vicinity of the St. Joseph river. The best orchards are within two or three miles of the lake, and it is owing principally to the moist lake winds that heavy frosts are kept away, rendering a total failure of the fruit crop of rare occurrence. One man—Mr. George Parmarlee—has 9,000 trees about two miles from Bronson's Harbor, directly on the lake shore, elevated about 150 feet above the water, and he has not failed for sixteen years to have a good crop.

☞In a recent breach of promise case in Liverpool, damages to the amount of $15,000 were given the lady. The principal evidence was a love letter—a dear one.

☞The Dayton Empire denies that there was a mob there to rescue certain prisoners from the Provost Marshal, as the telegraph informed us a few days ago.

WHAT ARE THE STARS?

[From the German—For the Boston Post.]

Are they white lambs, those stars on high,
That, when the day-star sinks in night,
Still feed in pastures of the sky,
And to young shepherds lend their light?

Or silver lilies are they, there,
With sweetest petals open spread,
That, when we mortals rest from care,
Their fragrance o'er the weary shed?

Or consecrated candles, tall,
That on God's altars shine so bright,
The darkness of our earthly ball
To dissipate with softest light?

Ah, no! they are the letters fair
With which good angels, clothed in white,
Sweet hymns of love for us prepare,
And in Heaven's book of record write.

BOSCAWEN.

GENERAL LANE.—We like him. There is a sublimity in his impudence which cannot be surpassed.

He uses the word murder as if his own hands were unstained by blood; he peals forth the word lie as if his own lips were not a living chronicle of it.

A large portion of our people are misled by him; we pity them. For there is not a youth nor politician, not a clergyman nor a citizen whom he circles within his influence whom he does not debauch. Taint is the word to be written upon his life-long action. He appeals to no pure motive in others, he acts upon no honest resolve himself. He forgets all; he is willing to sacrifice all, whether that sacrifice be the individual or State, so he himself can be elevated.

This man, thus devilish in purpose and diabolical in action, sought to sway the multitude on Wednesday night against us. His malignant eye glared as he prayed the multitude to gut the office of the Times and destroy it. Not yet less fiendish was his malignant spirit as he assailed the Governor. The Mayor stood by his side, passive if not a supplicant tool—Carl. Wilder, a cipher, bent to his will. Gathering all his strength, with theatric action, and with a voice half stifled with passion, he bade the multitude tear down the Times.

That multitude, amazed, looked upon him as half maniac and half devil. They heard but heeded not his devilish counsel.

A wider work of destruction is before him. He means that there shall be no peace or safety in Kansas now, or in the future. He cares not for peace or safety. He would defy the Republican party and throttle the President of the United States; he would crush both, if by so doing he could advance himself. What cares he about the expense of the people in going to Paola? What cares he about the sacrifice of life by a conflict between that honest people gathered there and the United States troops over the border, if amid the wild excitement he shall be held and hailed as a leader?

We shall meet this man, whatever the cost, come weal or woe! We shall expose his villainy and tear off the vail of his selfish disguises.

As matters now stand, the bandit's plea, plunder, and the bandit's patriotism, revenge, are the only pleas which govern the scoundrel policy of this madman of Kansas.

We speak strongly, but we speak coolly. We shall do our part to meet and expose this man. Let the honest people of Kansas do likewise, and he is bound to fall, as all such men fall, dishonored and disgraced.

[Leavenworth Daily Times.

LANE'S PART IN THE QUANTRELL AFFAIR.—S. N. Wood, Esq., of the Council Grove Press, publishes the following facts relative to the part which Lane took in the pursuit after Quantrell. We have learned from several of the most reliable citizens of Lawrence that the statements of the Press are, in every particular correct. It says:

Gen. Lane ran clear through the cornfield and hid in a ravine near Rev. Brown's, two miles from town, followed by his negro. After the raid was over, Robt. Morrow took his family out to Brown's, and Lane had sent his negro out to reconnoiter. He found Morrow and piloted him to the ravine. Lane was completely bewildered; he did not know where he was; inquired the distance to Lawrence, and the direction; whether there was any road, and where the California road was, and if he had not better get further off; Morrow left him there, returned to town, a party collected, went in pursuit, were joined by another party from Wakarusa and continued the pursuit, all before Lane returned to town. Lane came in between eleven and twelve, heard what had been done, sent a messenger to report to the "reliable Leavenworth dailies" that he was in pursuit of Quantrell, and left with two men to overtake the command, when the last we heard of him he was riding along, head down, in the rear of our forces, urging them. The next number of the Leavenworth papers will have glowing accounts of "How Lane drove Quantrell out of Kansas," we suppose. Had Lane collected ten men he could have defended his house against the whole guerrilla force, and, perhaps, have saved much of the town. A. K. Allen defended his house alone, saved himself and home, when men were called to the door and murdered, and houses burned all around him. Lane, we suppose, is brave enough, but he has an excellent pair of legs; they won't stand and see his body hurt.

HOUSES IN WASHINGTON.—A Washington letter writer says the demand for places to live in in Washington is treble the supply already, and when Congress meets it will be as difficult to accommodate all the people as it used to be on inauguration days. Such a thing as a vacant house is unheard of. Ordinary houses on the back streets, that once rented for $150 and $200 per annum, are now commanding double that amount, and the tenant often gives a premium of a hundred dollars or so for the privilege of paying such a rent. It is estimated that from five hundred to a thousand vacant houses are needed at this moment. Only the rich can keep house.

JOHN MINOR BOTTS.—A correspondent of the Indianapolis Journal, writing from Virginia, says:

Did you ever hear tell of John Minor Botts? Well, on Saturday last, while the Third Indiana cavalry were engaged in a skirmish about six miles south of here, Major McClure, seeing a hale-looking, oldish gentleman in a door by the roadside, hailed him and inquired, "Which way did the rebel cavalry, that a moment since passed here, go?" "Sir," was the reply, "I am under the parole to the Confederate Government to tell nothing I see. But, sir, my name is John Minor Botts, as devoted a Union man as the world can find. I put no 'ifs' and 'buts' in the case." May his release from parole come soon.

MORE OF QUANTRELL.—A graduate of this office, now a resident of Kansas, and in the Federal service, was here a few weeks ago. He knew Quantrell well—had had business transactions with him, and showed us a note he held against him for clothing furnished, which he was willing to part with at a discount. He was from Ohio, and officiated as a school-master. At the opening of this war, he and a brother entered the Federal service. Soon after the latter was shot by order of Jim Lane, for some trival cause. The survivor swore to avenge his death, and hence his subsequent course.—[Manchester Union.

FLIGHT OF PROPERTY.—At the commencement of the rebellion, Mr. Browning, of Prince George county, Md., owned four hundred slaves. He now has eleven left, all babies and decrepit old women; the rest have stolen themselves. About sixty of the men now fight with the First District Colored Regiment. Mr. Browning says he does not consider slaves in Maryland safe property.

☞A judge in London has decided that a lover cannot have the aid of the law to recover gifts made to a young lady while courting her. Mr. Raphael, who courted and then quarrelled with a pretty young Jewess, attempted to recover the value of a clock which he gave her, but the judge told him, "You should not give clocks to young ladies, Mr. Raphael. You must be non-suited."

WHITE OFFICERS OF BLACK REGIMENTS.—The Washington Republican says:

The rebel authorities have expressed a willingness to exchange all prisoners except the white officers of black regiments. They would not condescend to entertain such an insulting proposition.

☞A Methodist preacher, the Rev. Mr. McDonell, stabbed Mr. Castle, in Kansas, a few days ago, for seducing his wife. Castle will probably die.

☞The wheat crop in Wisconsin is estimated by the Madison Journal at 30,000,000 bushels, of which she can spare two thirds.

☞There is a rumor in Washington that Butler is to have a command in Texas.

☞Mr. Powers, the sculptor, has just lost his eldest daughter.

Incidents of the Earthquake at Manilla.

A private letter received in Boston, dated at Manilla, June 5, gives the following incidents of the recent terrible earthquake:

The worst of it is that the houses are not to be trusted, although still standing. Every day they are falling. Last night a large stone store of Ker & Co.'s (near the Quinta or Suspension Bridge), which was considered as saved, fell in. I much fear the first gale of wind. And now I suppose you would like to know where I was.

We were seated to at dinner at Santa Ana, and thinking the shock only a slight one, stepped at the table until we saw a piece of one of the walls fall in the parlor just behind us. Immediately all made for the stairs, and found the oscillation so strong that our legs went from under us. I being long armed and strong, braced myself between the banisters, and with one jump cleared the rest of the party and landed on the tiles below on my feet. The shock continued after we reached the garden. Just as we touched the ground a tremendous crash made us aware of the strength of the earthquake, and all was over.

On examination, we found the dinner-table undisturbed, the roof still on the house, but the back part of the building, facing the river, was quite out, and all the shell windows on the ground. Of course we gave up the pleasant little dinner, and took a snack in the yard. On reaching Manilla, I found what I have told you. The old house in Binondo stood it famously. I found my room all in a mess, everything in the way of books and furniture being scattered about the floor. The partition between the small room and the front fell, and, with the exception of a little plaster on the walls, and a few tiles moved on the roof, sustained no further damage. I never wish to see a second earthquake like this last.

THE CORPS D'AFRIQUE.—A COMMISSION APPOINTED TO REGULATE THEIR EDUCATION, ETC.—Major General Banks has issued the following order, dated "Headquarters, Department of the Gulf, August 21st, 1863:"

I. Colonel John S. Clark, Major B. Bush Plumley and Colonel George H. Hanks, are hereby appointed a commission to regulate the enrollment, recruiting, employment and education of persons of color. All questions concerning the enlistment of troops for the Corps d'Afrique, the regulation of labor, or the government and education of negroes, will be referred to the decision of this commission, subject to the approval of the commanding general of the department.

II. No enlistments for the Corps d'Afrique will be authorized or permitted, except under regulations approved by this commission.

III. The Provost Marshal General will cause to be enrolled all able-bodied men of color, in accordance with the law of conscription, and such number as may be required for the military defense of the department, equally apportioned to the different parishes, will be enlisted for military service under such regulations as the commission may adopt. Certificates of exemption will be furnished to those not enlisted, protecting them from arrest or other interference, except for crime.

IV. Soldiers of the Corps d'Afrique will not be allowed to leave their camps, or to wander through the parishes, except upon written permission, or in the company of the officers.

V. Unemployed persons of color, vagrants and camp loafers, will be arrested and employed upon the public works, by the Provost Marshal's Department, without other pay than their rations and clothing.

VI. Arrests of persons, and seizures of property, will not be made by colored soldiers, nor will they be charged with the custody of persons or property, except when under the command, and accompanied by duly authorized officers.

VII. Any injury or wrong done to the family of any soldier, on account of his being engaged in military service, will be summarily punished.

VIII. As far as practicable the labor of persons not adapted to military service will be provided in substitution for that of enlisted men.

IX. All regulations hitherto established for the government of negroes, not inconsistent herewith, will be enforced by the Provost Marshals of the different parishes, under the direction of the Provost Marshal General.

By command of Major General BANKS.

PROFLIGACY IN WASHINGTON.—The correspondent of the Boston Traveler thus discourses of matters and things in Washington:

It is useless to deny that the war has, in a measure, polluted the taste of the people, bringing, as it has unmistakably, a train of evils to the doors of Washington previously but little known, until it is saddening to behold the utter degeneracy of the people, particularly the middle classes, to-day. The stranger cannot fail to observe the large number of jibbering foreign rowdies who congregate at the corners of the different streets. Many of these fellows are exiled vagabonds, who are here on the lookout for the first dishonest government official who has something to sell. It makes no difference whether the property be confiscated furniture, captured horses or Quartermasters' or Commissary stores, the purchaser has no principles to lose, and why should he be scrupulous in making a bargain?

Then there are scores of professional gamblers here from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Boston, plying their arts most dexterously to inveigle as many unsuspecting officers and soldiers as possible into their meshes, after the Paymaster has been around, and in which, I am sorry to say, they often succeed, robbing the foolish men of every cent of their hard earnings. Brazen-faced harlots promenade the avenue, and dash through the streets in open barouches, dressed in the most flashy costume, their faded features covered with chalk and rouge. Half-intoxicated rowdies roll through the streets in open carriages, smoking their cigars, and shouting indecent language. In fact, gambling, licentiousness, drunkenness, and every species of evil, run riot throughout the city, until now profligacy reigns supreme. I would like to tell you a few facts in relation to the "illegant hotels" of this dusty place, and of the recherche style in which nothing is served. But enough of Sodom and Gomorrah.

A NATION OF PIGMIES.—In the Bay of Bengal, on the high road of commerce, is a group of islands thickly covered with impenetrable jungle, and swarming with leeches in the wet and ticks in the dry season. Except a species of pig, until recently entirely unknown to science, there are no wild animals that offer any molestation to man; but to make up for this deficiency, the human inhabitants are amongst the most savage and hostile that voyagers have ever encountered. They may truly be termed a nation of pigmies, being on an average only four feet five inches high, and weighing from seventy to seventy-five pounds; but they are well proportioned, and display agility and limbleness truly wonderful. Their skin is dark, though not as black as that of the negro, and their faces are decidedly ugly. They go entirely naked, shave the hair off their head with pieces of bamboo or broken bottle, and further increase their unsightly appearance by daubing themselves all over with a mixture of red ocher and oil, or covering their persons towards nightfall with a thick coating of soft mud, to serve as a protection against the musquitoes, with which, in addition to the leeches and ticks, they seem to be tormented the whole year round. They are excellent swimmers, and take to the water almost before they can walk, and they rely upon the sea for their principal supply of food—turtles, oysters and fish.

☞We have been shown a private letter dated at "Poe's Tavern, fourteen miles northeast of Chattanooga, August 26," from an officer of General Hazen's command, in which it is stated that a number of rebel prisoners was captured there, the most of them of the Thirty-fifth Tennessee, Colonel B. J. Hill. The writer adds:

"Deserters come in every day in large numbers, and I was informed by two who left a few days since, that on the 10th inst., Hill's regiment only numbered eighty men; on the following day it numbered only sixty-four. They also state that all the Tennessee regiments are becoming depleted equally as rapidly, besides Kentucky and Texas regiments."

He says also:

"A loyal man by the name of Castor is now organizing a company of East Tennesseans, and has enlisted about fifty from this neighborhood."

Good for the East Tennessee loyalists. They are glad to have an opportunity to strike for their own redemption.—[Nashville Union, 6.

SALE OF BLOODED STOCK AT ASHLAND.—It will be seen by a notice in our paper to-day that the sale of the blooded horses and cattle belonging to Mrs. James B. Clay will take place at Ashland, on Monday next, instead of at the Vineyard Farm, as heretofore advertised. The stock is of the finest character, and will command the attention of purchasers.

☞Colonel Leonidas Metcalfe, who assessed and collected fines of "Southern Rights" men in this and the adjoining counties, during last year, is now refunding to the parties sixty cents on the dollar, alleging that he has expended the remainder (for which he has vouchers) in remunerating persons injured by rebel invaders.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 4.

A refugee from Columbus, Miss., arrived here. He has been in the Quartermaster's Department of the rebel army the past two years, and has had more than ordinary opportunities for observing. He states that Johnston loses fifty men per night by desertion. His army is dispirited and demoralized, and those who have not deserted only wait an opportunity to do so.

Rebel officers estimate the number of troops between Columbus, Miss., and Corinth at 7,000.

Two regiments of Johnstone's army have been sent to Georgia, and two came up to Oktalona recently to repel an expected Yankee raid.

A reconstruction meeting had been appointed by the Unionists in the vicinity of Columbus, but was suppressed by the military. There is a strong latent Union feeling among the inhabitants which is becoming more open and bold in manifestation. The citizens regard the rebel troops as oppressors and invaders, and look anxiously for the advance of the Yankees among them.

Deserters from Bragg's army who reached here, state that they are on a third of rations, which consists of beef, rice, and corn meal.

Bragg's headquarters are at Shelbyville. His forces, about twenty-five thousand men, are much dispirited and anxious to throw down their arms.

The wheat crop throughout the country is good. The Confederate Government is seizing every tenth bushel for taxes.

Rebel officers acknowledge that they will be obliged to give up all the country north of Coosa river, in St. Clair county. The Union feeling is so strong that Secessionists are not allowed to stay there. In other sections men are secreted in swamps and caves, and would join the Federal army, but for the danger of capture by the rebels while making their way to our lines.

Three hundred deserters are rendezvoused in Winston county, all armed and determined to resist the rebel authorities to the last. The rebels are conscripting negroes at Talledega, and are building breastworks at Selma. These statements are daily confirmed by deserters and refugees and are believed to be true.

A deserter from Tupello, formerly Orderly to General Ferguson, has arrived here, and reports that Ferguson has at Tupello and Pontotoc over four thousand cavalry, with ten pieces of artillery. He also reports that Ferguson is contemplating a raid on the Memphis and Charleston railroad, while Roddy is to make an attack on Glendale, Mississippi, at the same time.

Newcome, with seven hundred men, is near Jackson, Tenn., conscripting.

The sanitary condition of Hurlbut's corps is good, and the troops are in fine spirits.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.

The Times' Morris Island letter states that the enemy has been lately re-enforced with 2,000 troops from Lee's army. They are encamped on Sullivan's Island.

It is impossible to hold out to the public, at this time, any brilliant prospects of immediate active operations. The weather is getting very inclement, thus rendering it a matter of some doubt if Dahlgren will succeed in his devices.

Another important point to be taken into consideration is the opinion of the Admiral that Sumter cannot be silenced. In that particular, the belief of Gillmore differs widely from that of Dahlgren—the former claiming to have completely silenced the fort eight days ago, basing his assumption on the statements made and corroborated by rebel prisoners and deserters.

As the fate of Sumter has a most important connection with the operations of the fleet, the Admiral does not like to venture an attack until the fact of Sumter being rendered useless is established beyond a doubt. His chief pilot and others who have been at a favorable distance to observe, assert that the northwest wall of Sumter is as sound as ever, and that six guns are mounted on the parapet, one or more of which fired rounds of shell last Saturday. Now, then, if Sumter is not silenced, we must wait until it is. That is the first step acknowledged by competent authority to be taken. We hope for the best.

[Special to the World.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.

Burnside's official dispatches are of great length, detailing his advance and occupation of Knoxville, and are so interwoven with information of his contemplated movements as to render them improper for publication at present.

East Tennessee valley is cleared of rebels down to within a short distance of Chattanooga.

It is expected that ere this our cavalry has destroyed the trestle work on the Virginia and East Tennessee railroad, where it spans the rivers and valleys in that mountainous region.

The Tribune's dispatch says that Captain Sharrar, with a portion of the First Indiana cavalry, General Howard's body-guard, made a reconnoissance to Aldie's vicinity, near Coal's Spring Gap. He encountered a body of Moseby's men and had a skirmish with them; he drove them off and brought in four as prisoners. The guerrillas had received new uniforms. These prisoners say this band was mustered into the rebel service since the 12th of last month. Part of the band is known to belong to different cavalry regiments, but the majority are citizens. These men report Moseby wounded in the thigh and hip, but not mortally. He is at Culpepper, and will probably be fit for duty in about six weeks.

VICKSBURG, Sept. 2, via CAIRO, Sept. 7.

Logan's division, under the command of Gen. Stevenson, was sent into Bayou Bœuf, and Washita counties, about sixty miles west and from here, on the Texas, Shreveport, and Vicksburg railroad, to break up, or drive, or capture the rebel forces that overran the country and the robbers did the forests of Europe in the days of yore.

From the Mississippi river to Bayou Macon, a distance of twenty miles, everything of hostile has been destroyed. From there to Bayou Bœuf the country is poorly settled. Thence to Washita it is Eden-like in its beauty. Planters are wealthy, the buildings large and the shrubbery and grounds splendid. I have seen nothing this side of Italy to equal it. At the town of Monroe the people welcomed General Stevenson. It is a town of great wealth. The stores were filled with the necessaries of life, but they were held at fabulous prices. Three cotton associations have their headquarters here. It is an organization of Jews and foreigners, for the purpose of cotton, and its transportation by Mexicans bring

AS THE AUTHORIZED AGENT OF THE FOLLOWing named safe, reliable, and justly popular Insurance Companies, Insurance will be made on Lives and every description of property at fair rates.
As the diversion of an insurance risk among several Companies is regarded as safer and more prudent than a large amount in any one Company, I would respectfully solicit a portion of the business of my friends and the public. Losses promptly and satisfactorily settled.
Proofs of losses and adjustments made at this office WITHOUT CHARGE on all policies issued at this Agency.

Mutual Life Insurance Company,
NEW YORK CITY.

Cash Fund belonging to the members insured $9,250,000.
ALL the profits are divided on the mutual system every five years among the members insured.
The business of this Company is conducted exclusively on the CASH plan. No notes whatever are received for premiums, or paid back on claims for losses. The accumulations or dividends may be applied to increase the amount insured under the policy, or in an annual deduction from the premium. In the first instance, many cases are on record where the amounts originally insured have been more than doubled by the accumulations or dividends, and in the second, the annual reduction granted by the Company is LARGER THAN THE ANNUAL PREMIUM; in which case the policy has been entirely paid up for the original amount, and the policy holder, instead of paying any premium to the Company, is actually IN RECEIPT OF AN ANNUITY (to be still further increased by future dividends), amounting to several hundred dollars, for the remainder of life.
Rates, pamphlets and any other information may be obtained upon application at this Agency.

WANTED—A steady negro man, for the balance of the year. Apply at Democrat office.

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS—On yesterday morning a man by the name of Garrett, who has been confined in our jail for a long time, was taken before Judge Muir on a writ of habeas corpus in order that he might give bail to answer charges preferred against him. It will be remembered that this man Garrett killed a man by the name of Hopewell near Shepherdsville in August, 1861, under very aggravated circumstances. He was arrested at the time, and at a preliminary examination was released upon giving $5,000 bonds. The grand jury of Bullitt county afterwards found an indictment against him for willful murder, when he was rearrested and sent to this city for safe keeping. The sheriff of Bullitt county arrived in our city yesterday morning, having in charge a man by the name of Sidney Smith alias Horan, who was with Garrett at the time the killing was done, who is introduced as a witness for the Commonwealth. A portion of the testimony was heard yesterday, and the balance will be given in to-day, when, in all probability, the Judge will render his decision in regard to the writ.

POLICE PROCEEDINGS—Tuesday, Sept. 8—There was a fair amount of police business transacted to-day, and, for a wonder, it was done in moderate terms. The following cases were disposed of:

David Shrader and John Shrader, stabbing Andrew Doro; continued until Thursday.

Ann McCann, a white woman, and Robert, slave of Charles Fields, charged with cohabiting together; twenty stripes for the negro, and $200 for six months for the white woman.

Louis Mateer, drunk and disorderly conduct; $100 for two months.

Pat Brown, drunk and disorderly conduct; $100 for two months.

Mary Ellen Hill, drunk and disorderly conduct; discharged.

Frank Pritcher, drunk and disorderly conduct; $100 for two months.

Henry Drane, drunk and disorderly conduct; discharged.

The call of the docket was then taken up, which occupied the larger portion of the day

AN OUTRAGE AND NUISANCE—We are informed by persons living in the vicinity of Oakland, as well as by the police, that the stench in that neighborhood is so intolerable that the residents there are compelled to keep their houses closed and burn different articles in order to kill the terrible smell. So bad has it become of late that several families living there have been compelled to move. This horrible stench comes from the number of dead horses from the government stables at Oakland that are allowed to lay there and rot. This is a great outrage upon our citizens and the authorities should take some steps to have the carcases of these animals removed, for if it is not done no one will be able to live in the neighborhood. We hope that some steps will be taken to have the nuisance abated.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.—We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Messrs. James McDermott & Co., commission merchants and wholesale dealers in foreign and domestic wines and liquors. This firm is prepared to make liberal advances on consignments to their house. They are thorough business men, entirely familiar with their line of trade and polite and attentive to their customers. Let those who desire the services of a commission house in Louisville remember the firm of James McDermott & Co.

THE BALL THURSDAY NIGHT.—Our readers should not forget that the grandest ball of the season comes off at Masonic Temple on Thursday night. This ball and promenade concert will be given by the officers on duty at this post. The celebrated Post Band will be in attendance and enliven the evening with their beautiful music. Neither expense nor pains have been spared to make it the great hit of the season, and we expect to see the hall crowded with the fashion and beauty of our city.

COUNTRY MERCHANTS' STORE BILLS.—Merchants in the city for the purchase of their fall and winter stocks will please remember that we have one of the most complete forms, from which we can furnish them any number of bills with great rapidity and in beautiful style. We are able to furnish one hundred store bills within an hour after the order is left

LOUISVILLE THEATER.—Another fine audience assembled at the theater last evening on the occasion of the second appearance of Miss Charlotte Thompson. Her impersonation of "Camille" came fully up to the requirements of the author. To night she appears in her celebrated character of "Madeline," in which she has no equal on the stage. We hope to see the house crowded.

☞The sheriff of Daviess county arrived in our city yesterday morning, having in charge one John Brady, convicted at the last term of the circuit court of that county and sentenced to the penitentiary for the term of one year for stealing a watch. They left for Frankfort on the train yesterday afternoon.

WOOD'S THEATER.—This popular place of amusement was again crowded last night with a large and fashionable audience, to witness the opera of the Bohemian Girl. The Arline of Miss Sallie surpasses any piece of operatic acting we have ever witnessed. The Bohemian Girl will be repeated to-night.

☞An amateur concert for the benefit of Grace Church organ will soon be given in this city Let the lovers of good music be prepared for a rich treat.

☞Twenty-three prisoners were brought to this city last evening on the train from Frankfort, and placed in the military prison.

☞Yesterday was the warmest day of the month, the thermometer standing at 88 in the shade at 2½ o'clock.

☞See P. Bannon's advertisement for plasterers.

SEIZURE OF TOBACCO.—On Saturday Surveyor Robinson seized at Evansville, on the steamer Piketon, five hogsheads of tobacco that were shipped at Canton and consigned to parties in this city. The hogsheads bore unmistakable signs of having been in the water, and are supposed to be a part of a cargo sunk some time ago. The Journal at Evansville is informed by Mr. Robinson that there are parties in Tennessee, near the Kentucky line, who make a regular business of hauling tobacco from Tennessee into Kentucky, at some accessible port on the Cumberland river, for shipment, in order to avoid paying the two dollars on the hogshead duty. All Tennessee tobacco on which the duty has not been paid will be seized and confiscated according to law.

ARRESTED FOR MURDER—Yesterday afternoon J. L. Clemmons was arrested at Lebanon, Ky., for the murder of a man by the name of Dickinson, in Franklin county, Ind., some time since. The brother of the murdered man arrived in our city yesterday and related the circumstances to Officers Sweeney and Sinkhorn, who, with that vigilance which characterizes them, immediately started in search of the murderer and found out that he was at Lebonon, Ky. The Chief of Police telegraphed to that place to have him arrested, and received a dispatch last evening stating that Clemmons had been arrested and was in jail. An officer from Indiana is here with a requisition from Governor Morton for Clemmons and will take him to Indiana to-morrow, where he will be tried for murder.

ARRIVAL OF PRISONERS.—Seventy-five prisoners arrived on the train from Nashville last evening. Nineteen who have taken the oath will be released at this place. Eleven deserters and eight citizen prisoners will also be allowed to take the oath at this place. Twenty-six are on their way to be exchanged, and William Salney, a citizen of Ohio, inadvertently taken up as a deserter, is being forwarded to the Adjutant General of his State. Lieutenant H. W. Morgan, of Morgan's scouts, Captain Henry Baker, of the regular C. S. A., and L. P. Jones, Commissary Sergeant, Tenth Alabama cavalry, are the only "distinguished" rebels in the number.

MURDER BY INDIANS.—A special dispatch to the Chicago Times states that news had reached that place to the effect that a flatboat coming down the Missouri river was attacked by Indians near the site of Sibley's battles and all on board, twenty-five in number, were killed. The dispatch also states that it was reported that Standing Buffalo, with some of his warriors, was at St. Joseph, Mo.

☞On Monday morning Mr. Israel McTaggart, one of the most prominent and enterprising of the pork merchants of Indianapolis, was found dead in his bed. Mr. McTaggart had been in appar ent good health previously. He was about fifty-five years of age, active and vigorous.

CAUGHT.—The two negroes who escaped with the desperado Wilson, from the Henderson county jail, were apprehended by Mr. Wm. Richardson and a few others, at Raleigh, Ky., and marched back and lodged in the county jail last Thursday evening.

☞A destructive fire occurred in Chicago on last Saturday afternoon, which consumed thirteen buildings. A small boy, in the employ of a man named Meyers, in whose house the fire originated, was arrested for setting fire to the house.

☞The Cincinnati Gazette says that it is thought Jones intends making a raid into the Kanawha Valley. He has been heavily reenforced, and his command now numbers seven to eight thousand.

☞The three lots on Kentucky street, near Second, sold at auction by Mr. C. C. Spencer on yesterday afternoon, brought twenty dollars per foot. Mr. Jas. P. Hull was the purchaser.

☞The Sentinel printing company at Indianapolis, Ind., are erecting a very large and fine building, to be used as a printing office. We are glad to record this evidence of their prosperity.

☞We are prepared to do every description of job printing in plain and fancy colors, and at prices to make it an object to those who desire anything in the printing line.

☞About sixty convalescent soldiers from the hospitals in this city have been sent forword to join their regiments at Vicksburg.

☞Mr. Lukenbill, the attentive messenger of the Adams Express company, will accept our thanks for favors.

☞W. H. Ehrich has our thanks for Cincinnati papers in advance of the mails.

☞Mr. Hester, express messenger, has our thanks for Eastern papers.

☞All experience proves that it is both easier and cheaper to prevent fever and ague than to cure it Let any one who doubts this give Dr. Bull's Cedron Bitters a fair test, and they will doubt no longer. In preventing this disease, and in securing the patient against a relapse after the chills have been broken, it stands without a rival. It has been thoroughly tested in this respect by our soldiers in camp, and we learn that Dr. Bull is in daily and hourly receipt of letters detailing its wonderful effects. se9 d&w2w

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO DRY GOODS MERCHANTS.—Having previously given due notice of the permanent removal of Mr. E. We cordially invite our friends to give us a call, and an inspection of our stock will at once convince purchasers of the superior advantages we can offer to them, both in regard to prices and variety of choice.

We would also recommend to sutlers our assortment of undershirts, handkerchiefs, gloves, suspenders, &c. Special attention will be paid to filling orders.

WORLD'S FAIR, LONDON, 1863.—The highest premium has been awarded for the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machines at the World's Fair, recently held in London, England, with all other sewing machines in competition. This result was not unexpected of course, but is still highly complimentary to American genius, and a triumph more noteworthy considering the public sentiment in England. This marked recognition of this machine not only adds to its prestige, confirming, as it does, the numerous awards here, but should satisfy the public that if any sewing is done Wheeler & Wilson's is the machine to do it.

OBITUARY.

Died, at the residence of his mother, Mrs. Martha T. Wilson, in Bullitt county, on Friday morning, September 4, 1863, JOHN FAY WILSON.

The deceased was born February 5th, 1839, and when but 17 years old his father died, leaving the care of the farm and business suddenly upon his shoulders. Faithfully and successfully did he discharge his duty to all concerned. As a son, he was obedient, affectionate and considerate: as a brother, gentle and loving; as a citizen, irreproachable in conduct, and of moral character above suspicion.

For more than a year before his death he had indulged a hope of a change of heart, though he had not publicly united with God's people. During different periods of his last illness he spoke of that hope. His sufferings with typhoid fever lasted some seventeen days, and were very severe. It was after the fever had spent its force however, that most clearly he witnessed a good, a glorious confession of the truth as it is in Jesus, and his hope of a blessed immortality. During this interval of several hours of undoubted rationality, he also arranged his business matters with a calmness, clearness, minuteness, and comprehensiveness, truly wonderful. His memory will long be precious to a large circle of bereaved acquaintances and friends.

DIED,

In Grant county, Ky., August 6th, 1863, of congestion of the brain, Mrs. ELIZABETH STRANGE, about 70 years of age.

The deceased was a resident of Louisville and had recently gone to Grant county to visit her son.

☞Let those who have doubted the virtues of BULL'S CEDRON BITTERS, if any such there be, read the following Certificate from gentlemen well known in this community, and doubt no more.

Its general introduction into the army will save the lives of thousands of our soldiers.

LOUISVILLE, KY., June 3, 1863.

We, the undersigned, have seen the good effects produced by the use of DR. JOHN BULL'S CEDRON BITTERS in cases of general debility and prostration of the system, and believe its general use would prevent disease and relieve much suffering. Among our soldiers particularly would this be the case, especially those who are exposed to miasmatic influences in the Southern climate.

GROVER & BAKER'S

Family Sewing Machine.

WHY IT IS BEST.

1. It is more simple, durable, and less liable to derangement than others.
2. It sews from ordinary spools, and no rewinding of thread is necessary.
3. It sews with equal facility all fabrics, the most delicate, and the heaviest, with all kinds of thread, silk, cotton, or linen.
4. It sews as strong and elastic that it never breaks, even on the bias.
5. It fastens both ends the seam by its own operation.
6. Its seam, though cut at every sixth stitch remains firm, and neither runs or ravels in wear.
7. Its seam is more plump and beautiful, and retains its plumpness and beauty after washing, better than any other.
8. Its seams can be removed in altering garments, AFTER PROPER INSTRUCTION, without picking or cutting them.
9. Watching and varying the tension upon the threads necessary in other machines, is unnecessary in this. The tension being once adjusted on the Grover & Baker Machine, any amount of sewing may be done without change.
10. It makes beautiful embroidery without any change of arrangement, by simply inserting threads of suitable sizes and colors for this purpose. It is the only machine that both embroiders and sews perfectly.

The Grover & Baker Machine has taken the First Premium at the State Fairs last held in New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, North Carolina, Alabama, California, including every State Fair at which it has been exhibited in 1862, and at a great number of Agricultural and County Fairs.

The Grover & Baker Machine upon the Grover & Baker Machine has received the First Premium at every Fair in the United States where it has been exhibited to this date.

Negley Holds Lookout Mountain.

A Battle May be Expected Soon.

The Rebels Fifty Thousand Strong.

They are Fortifying Night and Day.

Burnside has a Fight at London.

TRENTON, GA., September 8.

The army crossed Raccoon mountain without impediment and advanced to within ten miles of Chattanooga.

The infantry is concentrated and ready for action.

The enemy's position and movements are doubtful. Crittenden reports them at Chattanooga fifty thousand strong.

Gen. Wilder, opposite Chattanooga, reports the rebels busy night and day building pontoon boats. It is thought they intend to move north, attack and overwhelm Burnside, push on to Nashville or go through Kentucky, and by threatening its communications, force the Army of the Cumberland to fall back. Failing to defeat Burnside, it is thought they will retreat upon Richmond, re-enforce Lee and fall upon Meade.

Gens. Negley and Wood reconnitered Lookout Mountain yesterday, and found the rebel front strongly picketed. An attempt to cross will be strongly opposed. This range only separates the opposing forces. It is the general opinion that a great battle must soon ensue.

Negley's reconnoissance succeeded admirably. He got on to Lookout Mountain, and now holds it, strongly supported.

The Chattanooga Rebel of the 4th says Burnside attacked London on the 3d. The rebels destroyed the bridge and removed. Forres burnt his own train.

The Rebel of the 5th calls on Gov. Brown, of Georgia, to assume command of the State militia in the impending conflict.

Capt. White, of the Fourth Georgia cavalry, leaving Chattanooga on Friday as a deserter, says that Capt. Rhoades, of that regiment was shot and all the regimental officers reduced to ranks on the same day for encouraging deserters and helping conscripts to escape.

[All the lines East and North have been prostrated by a furious storm, consequently we are without our usual amount of dispatches this morning.]

THE FIGHT IN KANAWHA VALLEY.—The Cincinnati Gazette says that the recent fight between the Federal forces under Gen. Averill and the rebels under Jones, in the Kanawha valley, is represented as very severe. Parties just arrived at Wheeling from the scene of action make the following statement:

Averill, with from 2,000 to 3,000 men, attacked Jones' forces near White Sulphur and, after a hotly contested fight, Averill run out of ammunition and was compelled to fall back.

The Federal loss is put down at from 200 to 300, and that of the Confederates at about the same figure. Capt. Wm. Parker, of the Eighth Virginia, was shot from his horse and seriously, if not fatally wounded. Major McNully, of the Second Virginia, was seriously wounded. Lieut. French, of company E, Second Virginia, was shot through the knee. Capt. Ewing (artillery) was shot through the side.

The Fourteenth Pennsylvania suffered a heavy loss, as it was exposed to the hottest of the battle. Col. Schoolmaker was killed.

Averill captured the Highland county court, which was in session at the time, and destroyed the saltpeter works.

THE FLEMINGSBURG RAID.—A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette says that the recent raid to that place was much more formidable and disastrous than at first reported. He states that the force (which was composed chiefly of East Tennessee rebels) numbered about one hundred men, and was commanded by J. T. Williams, an escaped prisoner, of Morgan county. They robbed all the citizens they met in the streets, took a special deposit from the bank ($530) belonging to H. Wallingford, and from the sheriff they took $190 in cash, a good horse worth $140, together with saddle and bridle. They also took with them one hundred and twenty-five head of good horses, which is a severe loss to the citizens.

The correspondent makes complaint against the military authorities for allowing this band to escape unpunished, and says that unless there is a different disposition of the forces in that section other raids will follow.

☞Some time ago we mentioned the fact that the office of the United States express company at St. Louis had been robbed of $60,000 by some persons unknown. Since then it has been ascertained that the clerk of the house, Charles Hard, took the money and handed it over to a man by the name of Chas. Noyes, a detective policeman of St. Louis, in accordance with a previous arrangement. Hard afterwards took chloroform and created the impression that it had been administered to him, and while he was under its influence the robbery was committed. Noyes, together with a man named H. A. Smith, was arrested. Noyes was afterwards released upon telling where the money could be found, and the express company recovered $53,000. Noyes was afterwards rearrested and will be held to answer the charge of robbery.

☞At the court-martial held at Columbus last week, private John L. Lewis, of the Fifty-third Indiana, was sentenced to forfeit pay for absence without leave. Private Adam Heenson, Fifty-second Indiana, for deserting, six months' confinement at hard labor at Fort Halleck and forfeit pay. Private John Roe, Fifty-second Indiana, for bad conduct, three months' confinement at hard labor at Fort Halleck. Private Wm. H. Hewett, Thirty-first Wisconsin, for desertion and advising others to desert, and attempting to bribe the guard, was sentenced to forfeit all pay due and to become due, with imprisonment at hard labor during the time of his enlistment, and at the close of the imprisonment to be ignominiously dismissed the service, and to be sent to Alton.

☞The Western members of the class which has just graduated at West Point all took high rank. Peter S. Wichie, of Ohio, stood second; James D. Rabb, of Kentucky, third; William J. Trolning, of Indiana, fourth; Charles W. Howell, of Indiana, seventh; Asa H. Helgate, of Ohio, eighth, and John R. McGuiness, of Ohio, ninth in the class. The last named is assigned to the ordnance department, while the others take places in the engineer corps. The class numbered twenty-five members.

☞Lieut. H. W. Morgan, a nephew of Gen. John H. Morgan, and six of the men belonging to his command, were recently captured by a detachment of the Third East Tennessee cavalry, and taken to Nashville on Saturday last. The prisoners were provided with rooms in the penitentiary.

☞One hundred and ninety soldiers of the Second West Tennessee cavalry, who have been paroled and lying at Camp Chase for some time, passed this place en route for Memphis, on the steamer Jewess, last Saturday. They are to be mustered out of service at that place.

☞There arrived at Nashville on Sunday evening twenty-nine rebel prisoners from Stevenson, Ala., and twenty-eight were brought in from Columbia and Lavergne.

☞Mr. Harvey Myers, of Covington, Ky., has been appointed a United States Commissioner, by Judge Bland Ballard, of the Federal Court.

☞Some thirty men, women and children—refugees from Arkansas and Texas—arrived at St. Louis on Sunday.

☞A few days since a little girl by the name of Underwood was so badly burned at Madison, Ind., that she expired in two hours.

The river at this point continues to fall and the water has become so low that there is not much room for a further decline. In the canal, last evening, there was not over 2 feet 2 inches water by the mark. From present indications we are of the opinion that it will be some time before we have a rise. The weather yesterday was clear and very warm.

Our dispatches from both Pittsburg and Cincinnati state that the river is falling. From Pittsburg to Cincinnati there is not over 28 inches of water, while from Cincinnati the depth in the channel cannot exceed 3½ feet.

From the lower Ohio we have nothing new to report. The water continues to recede, and on the bars hence to Cairo there is but little over two feet water.

The Cumberland is falling with only 17 inches water on Harpeth Shoals.

A dispatch from Memphis states that the river thence to Cairo is six feet full, and the channel at twenty-five, and Phillips improving, and thence to Helena seven and a quarter feet and channel getting better.

On account of the low water and dull times the Nannie has laid up at Jeffersonville.

The Major Anderson is the regular mail and passenger packet for Cincinnati to-day, leaving the city wharf at noon.

LAUNCH.—We are informed that Capt. Pink Varble's new steamer, the Fawn, will be launched from the ship-yard of Dan Richards on Thursday evening at 4 o'clock. When finished, she will be as trim a boat as we have ever seen. Dan Richards is well known in our city as a thorough business man, and all work intrusted to his care is faithfully performed. Dan is one of the best boat builders we have and all in want of good boats should give him a call.

Business on the wharf yesterday was very dull. The arrivals and departures were only moderate and they received and discharged but little freight.

LOSS OF THE CHARLIE MILLER.—Some two weeks since the Charlie Miller got aground at Flint Island, when she stuck fast. The current of the river washed the sand from under both stern and bow and on Sunday last she broke completely in two. The boat will prove a total loss, the owners being able to save nothing, with the exception of the machinery. The Charlie Miller was built some three years since and was valued at $16,000. She was owned by Capt. Pink Varble and others of this city, who had no insurance upon her.

The new ferry boat building for the Jeffersonville Ferry Company will be finished and ready for service at an early day.

The Diligent is being thoroughly repaired at St. Louis.

The St. Louis Democrat says that the new St. Louis and Keokuk packet Harry Johnson is closely approaching final completion. She will soon be scudding along the river towards Keokuk.

The Hillman arrived at St. Louis on Sunday and reports meeting the Commercial at Island 10. When close by, a barge in tow of the Commercial, loaded with grain, was seen to sink in a very sudden manner. No boats were seen aground by the Hillman, which boat reports six feet water below Cairo and five feet above.

We find the following, in regard to the upper streams, in the St. Louis Democrat:

The river has been stationary here for several days, with five feet water in the channel to Cairo, and six feet below that point.

The Major Anderson is the regular mail and passenger packet for Cincinnati to-day, leaving the city wharf at noon.

Many stock operators are seriously embarrassed by their recent losses, and some of them are bidding recklessly for railway shares on buyer's option at three to thirty days, in the hope of retrieving their losses by a lucky turn in the market.

New York Hop Market.

The Tribune of Saturday says:

Hops are steady and in moderate request at 16@26c for fair to prime, at which 160 bales sold; choice are held at 27@28c, and new Connecticut river at 25c.

St. Louis Horse and Mule Market.

The Democrat of the 6th says:

Arrivals have been free this week, and there has been a fair degree of activity in the market, enabling Government contractors to fill all their contracts for both cavalry and artillery horses. Prices were $100 for cavalry, and $120 for artillery horses.

There is some inquiry for both carriage and saddle horses. We quote them at $125@150 per head.

Three years old mules, fourteen hands and upwards, are in demand at $100@115; larger mules at $115@135 per head.

The sales at Morgan's Stock Mart, corner Fifth and Carr, for the week ending this morning, sum up 221 head of condemned Government animals at an average of $11, and 195 private horses at an average of $57 per head.

Shipments of Wool.

The following is a statement of the shipments of Wool from England to the United States for the first six months of the years 1861, 1862 and 1863.

	1861.	1862.	1863.
Colonial grown Wool	35,119 lbs	1,431,500 lbs	2,239,600 lbs
Foreign grown Wool	72,140	1,736,000	3,567,484
English grown Wool	39,721	833,911	371,168
Totals	167,030	4,039,081	8,149,176

The English market for wool is now said to be "decidedly healthy but the great abundance of wool operates against any advance in the quotations."

New Orleans Market.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 4, via CAIRO, 7.

The steamers Empress and John Warner have arrived from New Orleans, with advices to the 29 h ult.

The sales of Cotton for the week comprise 300 bales at 57½@57½c for low middling and 60c for strict middling. Market firm. Stock on hand 1,661 bales.

Sales of Sugar comprise 1,000 hhds, closing firm at 11½@11½c for fully fair to prime, refilled, 10½c for good common to fair, and 10½@11c for good fair, to refilled.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad company being unable to obtain sufficient labor to supply the road with the quantity of firewood required to do government business, it becomes necessary to impress five hundred (500) negroes from the negro population of the counties through which the road passes, and in which the firewood is required. By direction of Department of Headquarters the draft is to be made in the same manner as directed by General Orders No. 41 from these headquarters of August 10th. The commander of the post at Russellville will impress the negroes in Logan and Todd counties, and the commander of the post at Bowlinggreen will impress the negroes in Warren and Simpson counties. The commander of the post at Munfordville will impress the negroes in Hart, Barren and Hardin counties, and are hereby charged with the execution of this order.

The authorities of the railroad company are to inform the commanders of said posts of the quantity of wood required in each locality, and the number of men and teams required to get out the same. The men and teams impressed shall be placed in charge of the railroad company, who shall pay the owners of the same a reasonable compensation for the services rendered. Upon the proper certificate of the railroad company's officer, exemptions shall be given to the negroes of those parties who have agreed to furnish the railroad company with firewood; also those who may prefer to hire their negroes to parties having a contract with the railroad company for the delivery of wood. For every twenty cords of firewood to be delivered by contract per month, one negro shall be exempted. Negroes impressed under this order shall also be exempted from work on military railroads in other parts of the State, for which a draft will be made hereafter. The railroad company shall have the right to use any wood along the line of the railroad by paying to the owners thereof a fair compensation.
